What's an online contact form?

A number of elected leaders have stopped using standard email for taking messages from constituents, and instead have turned to online contact forms hosted on their official websites. The reason is that online contact forms allow for greater protection from spam, bots, viruses and other security threats, and therefore are beneficial for officeholders who receive particularly large volumes of messages.

It's important to understand that the online contact forms listed on this page are URLs for web pages as opposed to being regular email addresses.

To access online contact forms, users must type the URLs into a web browser such as Google Chrome, Internet Explorer, Safari, Firefox, etc.

That will take them to the officials' web pages, where they can type in their contact information and messages.

Conversely, the email addresses listed on this page must be typed into a message sent using a standard email app such as Google Chrome, Internet Explorer, Safari, Firefox, etc.
